operation of the Act rendered such tea almost entirely unsaleable; the recent great advance in prices has afforded the holder the opportunity of realising. These teas will presumably be chiefly shipped abroad, as they are completely out of favour for the home trade. The remark that their sale has given rise to another evidence of the improved taste in the matter of green tea for which the Adulteration Act must receive the credit. We may remark that the power of the Customs to detain tea or to pass it for exportation only does not apply to tea imported previously to the passing of the Act.

(London and China Express, Nov. 21.)

It is reported in well-informed circles that Mr. A. Bourne, son of a former Ambassador at Constantinople and at present, sub-Director of the Political Department of the French Foreign Office, has been named as the successor of Viscount Broussier de Montmorency at Peking. We congratulate Mr. Bourne on this important promotion, and we feel assured that the Chinese Government and the foreign community at Peking will find him a most agreeable addition to the Diplomatic body. He combines the savoir en mode with the fortiter, and the date of departure is not yet fixed.

The London Gazette contains the following appointments with reference to the Legation at Peking:—Hugh Fraser, Esq., Her Majesty's Secretary at that place (now on leave), to be Secretary to the Embassy at Vienna; the Hon. Thomas George Grosvenor, O.B., to be Secretary to Her Majesty's Legation at Peking. Our readers will remember that Mr. Grosvenor was Second Secretary at Peking from 1874 to 1877, and proceeded to Yunnan to investigate the circumstances connected with the murder of Mr. Margary.

The following changes have taken place in the China Consular Service:—Mr. Alabaster, Consul at Amoy, has gone to Hankow, Mr. H. A. Giles taking his place at Amoy, with Mr. O. Johnson as assistant. Mr. H. J. Allen goes to Newchwang, with Mr. Everard as assistant. Mr. Bullock goes to Chinkiang as Acting Consul. Mr. Ford will have charge of the Consulate at Tamsui, vice Mr. Frater, on leave.

The Bill authorising the Minister of Finance to pay £40,000 per annum as a subsidy for a mail service between Java and China has passed the Upper House of the Dutch Parliament. We presume that tenders will now be called for, but the competition will not be large for so small a subsidy, and the Netherlands-India Steam Company will be the only one able to undertake it.

H.E. the Marquis Tseng will, we understand, leave for Paris to-morrow, accompanied by his family for a lengthened visit. H.E. Tchen-lan-pin, the Special Envoy, has left Paris for Madrid, in order to be present at the coming Royal ceremony of the marriage of King Alphonso.

We understand that the negotiations on the Opium Clause in the Chefoo Convention, which Sir Thomas Wade was empowered to conduct at Peking, have not yet been brought to a conclusion. The ratification and publication in the Gazette is consequently still in suspense.

Sir Harry Parkes arrived in London from Japan, via America, on the 15th inst., but we regret to say that Lady Parkes died on the 12th. An Obituary notice will be found in another column.

The dividend to be recommended by the directors of the P. and O. Steam Navigation Company at the annual meeting on the 2nd prox. will be 3 per cent. for the half-year ended the 30th Sept. last, with a payment from the underwriting account of 1 per cent. (in all 4 per cent.), making, with the interim dividend paid in June, 5½ per cent. for the year. The distribution for the year 1878 was at the same rate.

In the Bankruptcy Court Mr. A. Midway Gepp, China merchant and tea dealer, of Rood-lane and Canton, passed his public examination upon a statement of affairs showing total liabilities £22,259 10s., and assets £272 18s. The trustee offered no opposition. The case of Mr. G. F. Dickenson was also heard. The total debts were £37,000. The assets were returned at £3,845. The bankrupt passed.

The Toronto Mail says:—A meeting, ostensibly of cigar makers, was held in the Horticultural Hall at San Francisco, on the 5th inst., when Kearney announced that it was proposed to organise a secret society, to be called "Jacobins," whose object would be to hang every and any merchant who should employ the Chinese, or in any way encourage Chinese labour. The agitator called for a show of hands on the proposition, when instantly, and with singular unanimity, the hands of all present were raised in approval. No disapprobation was shown, either by word or sign, of Kearney's proposition to organise a select and murderous society. Much excitement has been produced wherever the action is known.

The Athenaeum says:—Several retired merchants of Boston have contributed to a fund for teaching Chinese at Harvard University. Mr. Ko-kunhua, a Chinaman versed in the Mandarin form of his native tongue, has been engaged for three years to instruct those students who desire it. The text-book used is Sir Thomas Wade's "Progressive Course in Colloquial and Documentary Chinese."

Léon Sicou-chang, who, under Count Kleczkowski, had charge of the Chinese lessons at the Ecole des Langues Orientales Vives, died on the 14th inst., at the age of fifty-eight, from a congestion of the lungs. The deceased gentleman being a Christian, his funeral services took place on Saturday, at the Church of St. Pierre de Chaillet, and was attended by Mr. Schefer, director of the School, Count Kleczkowski, and several professors and pupils belonging to the Ecole des Langues Orientales. Léon had been about six years in France, and most of the student interpreters now in China belonging to the French Consular Service have been trained by him.

Capt. Arthur Hildebrand Allington, R.N., the senior of the four commanders recently promoted to the captains' list, was a midshipman in the Baltic and Black Seas during the Russian war, and has received the Baltic, Crimean, and Turkish medals with Sebastopol clasp. He took an active part in the last Niger Expedition in August, 1877, and was mentioned in despatches for his services. Capt. Archer John William Munro, the second on the list, served in the Canton river and at the capture of Canton, and commanded the Cockatrice up the Danube during the Russo-Turkish war, and received the approval of the Foreign Office for his services and reports. Capt. Charles Lister Oxley, the junior of the four officers promoted, was specially mentioned as a midshipman for services at the attack on the Pulo Forts in 1859.

The troopship Tyne arrived at Woolwich on the 18th inst. in order to take in stores from the Royal Arsenal previous to embarking troops for Cyprus, Colombo, and the China stations. The stores embarking at the Arsenal are principally guns, ammunition, and other garrison requisites for the foreign stations on her route, and her troops will be about 450 in number, exclusive of twenty-four officers. They will include drafts from the 27th, 102nd, and other regiments, to embark at Portsmouth. The Tyne has been recently docked and repaired at Chatham. She is under orders to embark at Portsmouth on or about the 24th inst., Major 1 hillpotts and 21 men for Ceylon, 12 men for Singapore, and 17 men for Hongkong—all belonging to the Royal Artillery. She will also take out Major Hales, Capt. Godbold, and 93 men from the 108th Regiment, to join the 27th Regiment, at Hongkong.

The Albatross, a screw sloop, Commander Errington, left Plymouth for Singapore and China, via the Suez Canal, on the 18th inst. As we have already announced, the Iris is to receive her first commission next month, and to proceed to reinforce the China fleet, in company with the steel corvette Comus. The Iris is a swift despatch vessel, built of steel and fitted with steel masts, and designed either for quick cruising or for rapid communication between colonies or fleets. So well has she fulfilled the hopes of her constructors that on her trial the Iris was proved capable of steaming at the rate of twenty-one miles an hour, and there is little doubt that on service her average speed will be between seventeen and eighteen miles. The Iris is not heavily armed, but carries ten guns, all of them 64-pounders, weapons that would stand her in good stead against most unarmoured ships. To add to her offensive character the Iris is to carry two steam torpedo launches, which can be lowered over the side for purposes of attack, and may be hoisted on board again without difficulty. The Woodlark, a double screw gun vessel, is under orders to be completed by the end of the year to relieve the Protie, a double screw composite gun vessel of the China station. The repairs to the Woodlark have been of the most extensive character, and have involved an outlay of over £15,000.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Proceedings of the Legislative Council at a meeting held on the 30th December, 1879, present:—H. E. the Governor (President); the Chief Justice, Sir John Smale; the Colonial Secretary, Hon. W. H. Marsh; the Acting Colonial Treasurer, Hon. M. S. Tonnochy; the Acting Attorney General, Hon. J. Russell; and the following hon. unofficial members: Messrs P. Ryrie, J. Keewick, and J. M. Price.

THE MERCHANT SHIPPING CONSOLIDATION ORDINANCE 1880.

The consideration, in Committee, of this Bill was resumed where the last day's proceedings left off, that is, entering on Part II, (Sec. 24), which is concerned with the regulation and control of the waters of the Colony, and of the vessels navigating the same.

On the clause concerning light dues, it was stated that the M. M. steamers which in all other matters have the status of vessels of war, would not rank as such under this clause.

With regard to the clauses relative to gunpowder, Hon. Mr. Price suggested that dynamite and also other explosives should be included. Dynamite was being largely used and would eventually supersede gunpowder.

The Acting Attorney General pointed out that this was provided for by the Dangerous Goods Ordinance, which he intended to reprint as an appendix to this ordinance. Korosine, dynamite and everything else of the kind was provided for by that ordinance.

On the suggestion of Mr. Tonnochy the Governor in Council was empowered, in addition to making rules and regulation for the proper carrying out of the provisions of the Ordinance with regard to gunpowder, also with regard to the storage of gunpowder on land, to make rules and regulations for its proper conveyance or carriage in the waters of the Colony. This arose out of a suggestion by Mr. Ryrie with regard to having specially constructed boats for the conveyance of explosive substances in the harbour.

Mr. Price, on this point, said he believed the Dangerous Goods Ordinance was defective.

The Attorney General said it would have to be dealt with by special amending ordinance, then; it was not intended to touch it by this Shipping Ordinance. Some desultory discussion ensued on a clause which required that all junks entering and leaving the harbour should declare as to, inter alia, the cargo on board. The clause originally stood that all junks entering should declare cargo. This was with a view to following up piracy. The Harbour Master suggested that all junks going out should also declare their cargo. Mr. Ryrie and Mr. Keewick were against this new provision. It would cause great delay and inconvenience to any foreign ship, and they concluded therefore it would be inconvenient to junks. Mr. Tonnochy said that as a matter of fact the junk-masters had been in the habit of so declaring their cargoes. Articles piratically stolen, had often been found on board when leaving. After discussion the clause was toned down so as to require only particulars of arms and ammunition carried and the general character of the other cargo to be declared. The clause as passed was drafted by the Hon. the Senior Unofficial Member.

With regard to the forfeiture of a junk leaving the Colony after night-fall it was pointed out that the junk shall be forfeited. The Governor explained that Mr. Philippo, then Attorney General, and Mr. C. O. Smith, then Colonial Secretary were in favour of the word being "may." That would leave the option of forfeiture of the junk to the Magistrate, whereas the other way the Magistrate was bound to forfeit, the power lying in the Governor, on petition, to annul the forfeiture. The word was "shall" in the old ordinance and the Secretary of State was of opinion that it should be retained. The point arose in this way. A junk left the harbour after night-fall and was seized outside the waters of the Colony and 59 balls of opium found. The junk master, as was always the case, swore she was seized within the waters of the Colony. The Harbour Master investigated the matter and reported that the junk had left the port after dark with the opium on board and without a clearance. The Marine Magistrate and Mr. May adjudicated the case and found that the junk had violated the two clauses, but they went on to say that they thought it would be sufficient to inflict some very trifling penalty, binding the master over in auretles for a week or something of the kind. But seeing that the ordinance had been actually violated and that the words were "shall be forfeited," he (the Governor) took on himself the responsibility of forfeiting the junk, and gave the junk owner the option of coming before the Court and claiming his junk. The whole transaction was reported to the Secretary of State and he instructed him as Governor to inform the Magistrate that it was their duty to have forfeited the junk. He also desired that the words "shall be forfeited" be retained. Mr. Philippo and Mr. Smith had said that as they understood it, the law was framed to prevent piracy. The Secretary of State said he understood the ordinance as also framed to prevent smuggling. He desired to hold the Governor as the man responsible and did not desire to give the Magistrate the power to let the offender retain his junk. It was only due to a neighboring friendly power to do nothing which could be taken as in any way encouraging smuggling. Were the old ordinance altered in the way proposed it might be taken as a relaxation of the law. He desired to make the Governor responsible for any junk returned to any one violating the law. He (the Governor) had been told by the Captain Superintendent of Police that the men who carried on this smuggling trade in salt and opium were the bad characters who were to a very large extent responsible for thefts and other crimes here. They were desperate men who carried their lives in their hands and lived a regular life of crime. These were the men who set out on these nights with goods on board to be smuggled. These men he had thought it his duty to punish by the forfeiture of their junks. But in any case in which there was reason to believe that the offender was an honest trader who had made a slip and brought himself within the law, he had invariably declared the forfeiture null. He had always given careful attention to the case when the Magistrate recommended the return of the junk and had been always able to give effect to the recommendation. He agreed with the view of the Secretary of State that the ordinance was framed as much to prevent smuggling as to guard against piracy.

Mr. Ryrie said that was of course smuggling into China ports. His Excellency: Yes. Mr. Ryrie, with regard to our legislating to prevent the revenue of China from suffering, remarked that we got very little for it. They were not doing much for us. Of late he saw they had been interfering with private parties out in a yacht in the harbour.

On this remark arose a long statement by the President as to the history of the blockade question, in which he complained of his hands having been tied since he first came to Hongkong. He had always been of opinion that the customs stations and cruisers should be abolished. The question was how was that to be done. He complained bitterly of the secrecy which had been observed with regard to the Chamber of Commerce meeting with Sir Thomas Wade. That neither the Governor nor the junk owners should have been allowed to know the views Her Majesty's Minister held was extraordinary. He invited discussion on the point, how were the revenue cruisers and the customs stations to be got rid of and the revenue of China from opium secured to her. It was his desire to see all piece goods, and everything save opium and salt (the latter of which was contraband) enter China without let or hindrance. He had been tied and his efforts nullified by the memorandum of a basis of agreement which, prepared and signed by Sir Arthur Kennedy a day or two before he left, had crossed him (Mr. Hennessey) on his way out. That was set forth as a basis agreed on after consultation with his hon. friend on the left (Mr. Keewick) and the Hon. Mr. Lowcock, and therefore taken as having the sanction and approval of and satisfying the commercial community. With such a document in the hands of the Viceroy, as it was before he had been here any time, they could well understand how difficult it would be to get the stations and cruisers removed, Sir Thos. Wade and the Secretary of State holding that China had a right to maintain these.

Mr. Keewick for himself, for Mr. Lowcock, and for the Chamber of Commerce, distinctly denied that one or other of them had ever approved of the basis referred to. Mr. Ryrie also, on behalf of the Chamber, denied sanction of the basis of agreement spoken of.

Mr. Keewick and Mr. Ryrie also disclaimed the responsibility of the Chamber for reporters being excluded from the meeting. [The discussion of this blockade question was an extended and important one; it is of too great importance to condense or summarise, and we hold it over till to-morrow night, when we shall give a full report. It is particularly unfortunate, the Council sitting on mail night, sitting at a late hour in the afternoon and not rising till close on six o'clock; but we prefer giving the report to-morrow with that fulness and fairness the subject demands to hurriedly summarising it to-night. We shall, of course, prepare our report in time to be embodied in the "Overland" to be published at noon to-morrow.]

With regard to junk licences, the Governor stated that the Secretary of State was of opinion that when the finances admitted of it they might fairly consider the question of removing or at all events very considerably reducing the junk licences, but at present he made no proposal in the matter.

The Bill having passed through committee one or two points held over from the previous days' discussion for reconsideration were now taken up.

No discussion of any moment ensued however. The Bill having passed through committee, was finally passed by the Council, although the Chief Justice explained that he would have preferred seeing it printed with the many verbal and other alterations made in Committee shown, and having it finally revised by the Acting Attorney General.

The Governor drew attention to the suspending clause and stated that he did not intend to issue his proclamation bringing the ordinance into force until it had been sent home and approved by Her Majesty's Government. The Council adjourned sine die.

ALLEGED BREACHES OF THE JUNK ORDINANCE.

Lam Shu, master of the trading junk Kam Hip Fat was charged with a breach of sec. 15 of Ord. 6 of 1866; in not leaving the anchor age within 24 hours after receiving his clearance on the 8th inst.; and Lam Yau Kan, seaman of the same junk, with a breach of sec. 14, of Ord. 6 of 1866, in not stating the true nature of his cargo, and with leaving the waters of the colony without a clearance.

Mr. Brereton appeared for both defendants.

It appeared from the evidence led that the junk took in her cargo at West Point. A clearance was taken out on the 8th. On the afternoon of the 9th the junk made for the Ly-ee-moon Pass but was compelled to anchor off East Point for want of wind. On the 10th a wind sprang up but not favorable for the Ly-ee-moon Pass; the junk therefore sailed through the harbour and went out by the western entrance arriving the same evening off the entrance to Aberdeen Harbour and anchoring there. About 10 o'clock that night the junk was boarded by a party from a steam-launch. The first defendant was the owner of the junk and cargo but being no sailor he does not always accompany the junk and on this occasion was not on board, the charge being taken by his nephew, the second defendant.

Inspector Matheson said there were six other witnesses who might be called but they would only corroborate what had already come out. There was no evidence to show that the junk left during the night.

The Bench being satisfied that the first defendant was not on board at the time of the junk's capture he was discharged. Neither did there appear to be any case against the second defendant. The Bench was convinced no breach of the Ordinance had been committed.

Wong Ching was charged, with leaving Sow-kee-Wan the harbour without a clearance on the 24th inst., and with not having his license on board.

Inspector Swanston proved arresting the defendant who was leaving the harbour in a junk as he knew that no clearance had been taken out. He admitted that he had not got his license on board; he had no clearance or other papers.

Prisoner in defence said he had only been a master since February last when he took out a license but did not know it was necessary to carry it with him. He had not been out of harbour before and did not know it was necessary to take out a clearance. The license said in Chinese that a junk can trade within 20 li (7 miles), of Hongkong harbour and he was not going beyond that distance.

The Magistrate thought this a very good plea and expressed surprise it had not occurred to some one before this. Case dismissed.

China.

(N. O. Daily News.)

The Ministers for Austria, Holland, Peru, and Spain are at present visiting Shanghai.

We hear that news was received here on Sunday (21st) of the death, at one p.m. on the 19th instant, of the Viceroy Shen, at Nanking.

A Bull in aid of the Masonic Charity Fund is announced to take place on the 23rd of January next at the Masonic Hall. Invitations will not be sent to Masons who are not subscribers.

We are glad to hear that the suggestion made in these columns by a Volunteer some time ago with respect to Church parades of the Corps, is likely to bear fruit, and that there will probably be a first muster for that purpose either on the 27th instant or the 4th prox.

The Rev. Messrs. Lambuth, Thomson, and Farham, under appointment of the American Bible Society to revise the New Testament in the Shanghai Colloquial, have proceeded with their work as far as 20th Chapter of Acts. They have been at work several years, meeting twice a week, besides working on it in the interval.

A correspondent at Foochow, writing under date of the 17th inst., states that the Rev. Nathan Sykes had just returned from Yeng Ping, having been rather roughly handled by a mob at that place. One person had made an attempt on his eyes with a fork, which was very nearly successful, the blow or thrust coming within about a quarter of an inch. Mr. Sykes's eyes having been weak for some years, some anxiety is now felt on his account with regard to them. The native officials of the neighbourhood did their duty when it was too late, as usual.

On Thursday night last (17th), between eleven and twelve o'clock, as the British steamer Levin, Captain Goodfellow, was on her way from Hankow to this port, a collision occurred between her and a lorch.

We are informed that the steamer at the actual moment when the vessels came in contact was backing to get safely out of the way. She had just been taking some passengers on board. The lorch cleared herself, passed between the steamer and the shore, and went up the river. After going some little distance her crew ran her ashore, where she was found by the steamer, which followed her after an examination of the damage done to herself. Three of her crew were brought down to Shanghai, where we understand, the lorch is owned. A rent of some length was made in the side of the Pekin, but her hold was not injured, being effectually protected by the guard. It was said that the lorch was considerably injured.

The arbitration case between the British barque himaman and the C.M.S.N. Co.'s str. Kiangteen was concluded yesterday, (22nd). The Court met at ten o'clock in the forenoon and sat until evening with the usual interval for tiffin. Mr. Drummond examined Captain Pratt and the chief engineer on behalf of the Kiangteen, and then he and Mr. Wainwright summed up on behalf of their respective clients.

The arbitrator then pointed out the various points for the consideration of the Nautical Assessors, Captain J. P. Roberts and W. Bowen, whereupon the Court retired to consider its decision. After an absence of nearly half an hour they returned, when the Arbitrator announced that the Assessors had found—1st, that the Kiangteen ought to have slowed down when first sight of the himaman; 2nd, that if she had slowed down then the collision would probably have been avoided; 3rd, that there was room for the Kiangteen to have passed between the himaman and Gough Island; 4th, that if she had kept closer to Gough Island as she might and ought to have done, the collision would probably have been avoided; 5th, that no precaution the himaman ought to have taken was not taken. With these findings he (the Arbitrator) concurred, and consequently held that the Kiangteen was solely to blame.

We are very glad to learn from Mr. Ferguson of The Farm, that he thinks the epidemic amongst his herd of dairy cattle has come to a stop. The number he has lost is something enormous in so short a space of time—23 milking cows have succumbed, also his entire stock of young heifers in calf, two year olds, yearlings, and calves—in all about 80 head. We feel sure the public will sympathize with Mr. Ferguson, and they must remember that this is not only a monetary loss but one which will take at least three years to reproduce, if it can be done then; with the great risk of a similar outbreak at any moment. In face of this we think the rise in prices for farm produce far from too great, as in Sydney to-day milk is 6d. per bottle and cows only worth £10 to £12, and thousands to draw fresh stock from when dairy cattle become sick. Here there is no such chance. Cows cost when landed, provided none die, £18 each with the great risk of passage.

The collision between the steamer Cruiser and the pilot boat S. O. Farham will still be in the recollection of our readers, and it will also be remembered that the owners of the S. O. Farham instituted an action in H.M.'s Supreme Court to recover £1,000 damages from the Cruiser and that on the 28th of October the Chief Justice reserved his decision, which has not yet been given. Now, at this late stage, a legal technicality has been discovered in the plaintiffs' Preliminary Act, to disqualify the Court met on Saturday last, and set for over two hours. In answer to the seventh question in the Preliminary Act, as to the course and speed of the pilot boat when the steamer was first seen, plaintiffs said, "E.S.E., about one and a half miles." Then, in answer to the twelfth question, what measures were taken and when, to avoid the collision, plaintiffs said "course continued until collision appearing unavoidable, helm put hard a starboard to ease the blow." The evidence showed that the pilot boat had changed from an E.S.E. course when the collision occurred, and the point was whether the plaintiffs could contradict the statements in their Preliminary Act, or whether they were not bound by what they had therein stated.

Mr. Drummond and Mr. Robinson each occupied the Court for about an hour in discussing the point. The sacredness of the Preliminary Act was admitted, but Mr. Drummond, on behalf of the S. O. Farham, contended that the seventh paragraph should not be read with the twelfth, whereas Mr. Robinson, on behalf of the Cruiser, argued from a reverse point of view, and maintained that the evidence for the defence, as well as that of the lorch of the pilot boat, showed the pilot boat was on an E.S.E. course. His Lordship said he would give his decision in the case on Tuesday next.

(Courier.)

The British steam yacht Albion arrived here from Japan on the 23rd.

Shen Pao Chon, died, we are informed, at Nanking, on the 18th instant. The action of the deceased Viceroy in connection with the Woussing Railway will be long recollected. It is believed amongst the Chinese that either Governor General Ho, from Foochow, or a Vice President of one of the Peking Boards, will be Shen's successor.

On Saturday night five persons confined in the cells at the Central Police Station made their escape. The cells are situated at the rear of the station, and in front of these is a kind of court, protected by wooden poles. For the purposes of health, the prisoners are allowed the run of the court at night. On Saturday one of the poles was sawn asunder, allowing the prisoners to escape into the yard, and thence over a wall into the street. One of the prisoners has since been apprehended.

Chief Justice French, in the case brought by the owners of the pilot boat S. O. Farham, a schooner of about 60 tons, against the S. S. Cruiser, of 647 tons, for damages arising from a collision which took place between those vessels at the entrance of the Yangtze river, at a little before 6 o'clock on the morning of the 2nd September, gave judgment on the 23rd. He dismissed the suit without costs.

A few days ago four native boats started to go to Soochow. They carried a rather large quantity of opium, and shortly after leaving Shanghai, they were attacked by river pirates. Two of the boats managed to get away, but the other two were boarded. Two of the boatmen were injured by sword cuts, and about fifty balls of opium were stolen. The robbers numbered about thirty.

We notice by the Customs returns of this day, per steamship Amoy, an export of fifteen piculs of prepared opium to Sydney, N. S. W. Some few weeks ago a large quantity left here by the English mail for Melbourne. This new export to the Australian Colonies is no doubt caused by the heavy fees levied by the Hongkong Opium Farmer.

There is a rumour abroad amongst the Chinese that, from the 1st January next, the Japanese Government intend augmenting the tariff on imports.
